Foreword

Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act 2009 or RTE Act 2009, has been enacted on 26th June 2009 and enforced throughout India except Jammu and Kashmir since 1st April 2010. It is now mandatory for all schools in India to apply and obtain Certificate of Recognition after fulfilment of all the norms and standards mentioned in the RTE Act 2009. Otherwise, respective State Government can withdraw recognition after hearing. Apart from these, there are number of rules and regulations regarding government funding, admission, free education, supplying of school dresses, mid-day meal, qualification and duties of teachers etc. mentioned in this Act and it is compulsory for each school to maintain every specifications.

Awareness was the prime requirement and since the period for implementing the entire specifications is only within three year thus it was very urgent to undertake a strong initiative to sensitize school teachers of both formal and informal schools, stake holders associated with the elementary education system, members of school management committees as well as guardian representatives. Considering this target group a Pilot Project had been undertaken to sensitize 1000 participants from 141 KMC wards including Head of the Institutions/Schools and teachers of government and private schools, stake holders associate with primary and secondary education system and Shiksha Bandhus. In addition teachers of Shikshalaya Prakalpas (alternative primary schools) were also included as they provide special training to out of school, over-aged children and never enrolled children to admit them in formal schools at per their age.

Altogether thirteen (13) sensitization workshops were conducted within 31st May, 2011 where 1004 participants were sensitized on RTE and 43 resource persons, guests and dignitaries delivered speech and trained participants on the different aspects of RTE Act 2009.

Through this Pilot Project only a small percentage of schools and targeted people were reached. Huge demands were raised by many head of the institutions to sensitize all teachers and parents to implement the RTE Act 2009 for the benefit of children successfully. The sensitization workshop achieved so much of popularity that many head teachers from nearby invited schools were also participated spontaneously in the workshop to know the RTE Act 2009 vividly. A considerable demand was generated by them for more workshops for all teachers of their schools as well as remaining schools of Kolkata.

Background

The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, though enacted by the Indian Constitution in 2009 but the movement was initiated long before. The contribution of Deshabandhu Chittaranjan Das and Subhash Chandra Bose to make Primary Education available for all has immense importance. The Bangiya Ayin Sabha in 1930 first raised the Prathamik Shiksha Bill in front of the British Government. In 1950, while writing the Indian Constitution, focus was given to ensure Free and Compulsory Education for the Children up to 14 years of age group. The Kothary Commission also suggested about the Common School System based on Neighbourhood Schools. This was the initiative to give opportunity to all children without any discrimination to study in their neighbourhood schools. To empower this effort on 1st April 1974 the Government of India declared the Primary Education, free for Girl Children. In the year 1986 the New Education Policy-NEP (1986) was developed and focus was given on the importance of upgrading the condition of participation in education, qualities of education and its application, infrastructure required as well as on allocation of fund.

After three years in 1989 the United Nations declared a person below 18 years as 'Child' and emphasized on primary and elementary education, specified the child's right as right to survival, right to development, right to protection and right to participation. The Government of India in 1992 accepted this declaration and through New Education Plan of 1992 suggested to allocate 6 % of Gross Domestic Product (GDP) in education.

Meanwhile, in 1990 the District Primary Education Programme-DPEP had been initiated in 5 districts where the female education rate was low. The project was initiated to admit out of school children, diversify development plan and mobilize parents/guardians. In 1993 the verdict came to declare Free Education for the children within 14 years of age as Fundamental Right by the Supreme Court on the basis of the case of Unnikrishnan Vs Andhra Pradesh Government. To implement it throughout India Sarva Shiksha Mission was established in 2001 and in 2005 the Government of India has developed National Commission for Protection of Child's Rights (NCPCR) to monitor, implement law, policy, programme or arrangements etc., identify cases where violation of child rights had occurred, take legal steps to protect child rights and to create awareness about child right.

In spite of all effort, many children still remained out of school and several were dropped out of school and mission could not achieve totally and thus, essentiality of the Act as a weapon is felt urgently. To materialize this constitution of India enacted the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act in 2009 and enforced it throughout India except Jammu and Kashmir from 1st April 2010. 3 years time has been given to implement the Act for Children and one more year is given for any revision.

In case the child is not able to finish elementary education within 14 years of time then more time can be given to that child for completing elementary education.
59. Smt. Mira Roy Chowdhury, Teacher-in-charge, Niranjana Palli F.P. School, enquired that how the age of a child can be enrolled without any proof. Mrs. Mukulika Ghosh Rakshit, Resource Persons SPAN, answered her that in absence of Birth Certificate, child's Hospital Record, Registration record of the auxiliary nurses midwives (ANM), record of the Anganwari Centre, or declaration of the parents about the age of their child through affidavits shall also be considered. However, in absence of any age proof, the school authority can not deny admission of a child and accountable to admit the child in school.
60. Smt. Sujata (Saha) Pramanik, raised her concern about problems in running school and conducting classes when govt. is sending school teachers for census and election duties. Mrs. Mukulika Ghosh Rakshit, Resource Persons SPAN, answered her that this situation will definitely be considered during formation of the State Rule.

61. Sri Monoranjan Roy, Head Master, Tollygunge Bangure High School, requested for RTE Sensitization Workshops for all teachers. Otherwise it is very much difficult for only Head Teachers to convince all teachers.
62. Smt. Lily Ghosh, Head Teacher, Basdroni G.S.F.P. School, requested guardian orientation programme to aware all guardians regarding the RTE Act.

Output of the Workshops

All total 13 workshops were held within February 2011 to May 2011, in which 1004 participants were sensitized on RTE Act 2009. All most all targeted group of people associated with the Primary and secondary education system in Kolkata are covered with a good turn over. The following chart will show the total number of participants who were sensitized on the RTE Act 2009.

Table 1: Details of Male-Female participants

Male-Female Ratio

Total 394 male and 610 females participated in the RTE Sensitization workshop with February to May 2011, which shows 39% male and 61% female participants. As females are more in teaching profession, thus male ratio is found considerably lower than female.

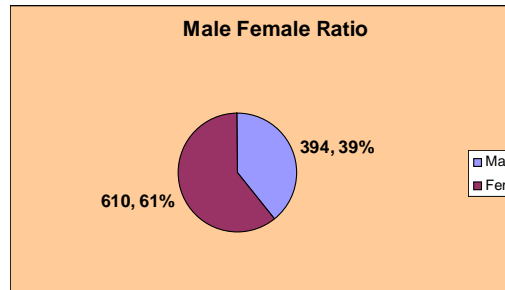

Chart 2: Male-female ratio of the participants

Total Number of Schools Participated: 353

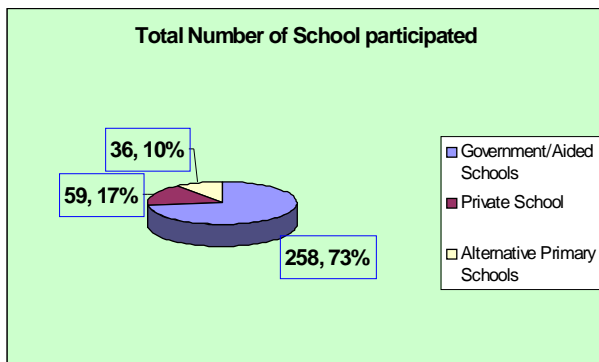

Chart 3: Total Participatory Schools

Out of total participatory schools in the RTE Workshops, Government and aided schools were 258 in number, private schools were 59 and alternative primary schools (Shikshalaya Prakalpa) were 36 in number.

Following observations are noted out of all RTE Sensitization Workshops:

1. All total 1004 participants associated with the primary and secondary education system and 43 resource persons were sensitised on RTE Act 2009. It is estimated through the on-going process of Education Infrastructure Mapping by different NGOs in 141 KMC wards, there are at present approximately 5000 education Infrastructure present. If on an average there are 4 teachers present in each of these infrastructures then it can be estimated that about 20,000 teachers are there in Kolkata, responsible for implementation of RTE Act 2009 for children. Out of them only 1004 participants from 353 schools (average 3) has been sensitized, which is a very low percentage and so there is an urgent requirement of such orientation programmes to reach the considerable percentage of target group.

2. Only one year and nine month is remaining, to implement the RTE Act for children. This time period is reducing day by day and it is clear that a mass sensitization on RTE ACT 2009 for teachers is essential as early as possible.
3. Proper implementation of RTE Act 2009 for children is only possible when all teachers will know the Act properly and come forward to facilitate children.
- 4. From the participants mass request were raised to sensitize all teachers of a school otherwise it becomes difficult for them to convince/aware their all colleagues.
5. Schools need support for their day to day expenses in absence of Admission fees and tuition fees. They need an orientation on School Development Plan as mentioned in the RTE Act 2009.
- 6. Many schools did not have any idea regarding infrastructural development considering their limitations as mentioned in the RTE Act 2009, which need special orientation.
7. Teachers from Kolkata Municipal Corporation were not included in this sensitization programme, a discussion was held with the authorities of Kolkata Municipal Corporation to train there teachers on RTE Act 2009.
8. Many Heads of Institutions/schools suggested organising workshops to orient parents for their better understanding with the RTE Act 2009.
9. Mr. Nabarun Dey, Secretary, Association of Schools of Indian School Certificate, West Bengal Chapter has currently requested to organise Sensitization Workshops on RTE Act 2009 for school teachers under their association.

Overall Impact

More sensitization workshops are urgently required to sensitize a good percentage of school teachers and parents, so that they can develop their schools as mentioned in the RTE Act 2009 and aware children, within 31st March, 2013. Only one year and nine month is left to implement the entire rules and regulations, norms and standard, otherwise schools may loose their recognition.
